RE: Request For A Vendor Application

To Nokia:

ATTENTION SHELLEY JAMES

My name is Alejandro Covarrubias, and I represent Traxcell Technologies, LLC. This letter is to follow up on two unsolicited patent applications submitted on August 31 of 2007. These two patent applications were submitted by mail to Nokia at their complex at 6000 Connection Dr., Irving, TX. Nokia's online information form was also completed and included with the patent applications along with Nokia's non confidentiality declaration. Traxcell is interested in selling or leasing it's ownership interest in two United States Patent Applications in the field of cellular telephone technology.

The first Application is entitled, "A Machine for providing a dynamic data base of geographic location information for a plurality of wireless devices and process for making same". It is United States Patent Application number 2003/0134648.

Nokia referenced Traxcell's Patent Application number 2003/0134348, in Nokia's recent United States Patent number 7242946.

The second Application is entitled "An enhanced wireless phone". This is United States Patent Application number 2007/0111756 or 2005/0113113.

I would like to know what my next step would be to establish a vendor relationship, and to find if your Company is interested in acquiring rights to either of these two Patent Applications. You can view these two Patent Applications at our website, www.traxcell.com, on the "Patent Information" page.

Please email any information that you may have regarding your Company's application requirements for selling products and services to your Company, to my Manager, Jeff Reed, at jreed@Traxcell.com.

Best wishes,

Alejandro Covarrubias

RE: Investor Feedback from Nokia.com

Dear Jeff,

I have contacted, or at least made an attempt to contact each company on the spreadsheet. Nokia was one of the first companies to reply to my attempts. Attached is the answer they gave me. The policy regarding unsolicited outside ideas, an outline information form and a declaration of non-confidentiality/originality, which they ask us to sign and return to them. In order to submit our invention for review.

My question is if you want me to fill out those forms, or do you want to do it?

Thank you
Alejandro Covarrubias

Dear Mr. Covarrubias,

Thank you for your email. Thank you also for your interest in Nokia and for bringing your idea to our attention.

In the interests of all concerned, it is Nokia's policy not to review unsolicited ideas submitted to us from outside the company unless the contents of the submittal are non-confidential. If the idea is covered by a patent, we still require that the contents of the submittal are made non-confidential. This is to avoid a situation where someone may later think that Nokia has stolen their idea.

Nokia is prepared to make a preliminary review of your idea on a non-confidential and non-binding basis, as outlined below. However, to ensure that you understand the legal risks involved, we strongly recommend that you seek legal advice from a lawyer or patent attorney first. You may also wish to consider obtaining protection (e.g. by filing a patent application) for your idea before you disclose it to Nokia on a non-confidential basis.

If you have a patent application, please send us a copy of the published patent specification and I will arrange for it to be reviewed on a non-confidential basis. It would also help us in evaluating your idea if you would complete and return the enclosed Outline Information and Declaration of Non-confidentiality Form.

If you do not have a patent application, or you have one but it is not yet published, we are prepared to review your idea on a non-confidential basis only if you complete and return the enclosed Outline Information and Declaration of Non-confidentiality Form together with the patent specification.

To avoid any misunderstanding, please do not send us any materials which you regard as containing confidential information.

I must emphasize that any review of your idea by Nokia will be strictly on a non-binding basis.

Finally, let me thank you once again for your interest in Nokia.

Yours Sincerely,

Shelley James
IPR Administrative Assistant
